The association, with the above city, has advertised its willingness and ability to lend a helping hand to parties desiring to erect machinery, of any description, at this point. Believing that such organization holds out the only, if not the last, hope for manufacturing in Clarksville, we earnestly appeal to every man of means, whether in town or county, to contribute liberally to a fund, which if judiciously managed, will materially advance the mutual interests of both. The county needs establishments which can supply, for barter or money, those things for which it is dependent upon foreign capital, skill and enterprise, and the town needs, none the less, those estab-

Mills took place last Tuesday. The signal for starting the mill was given by the steam whistle, and was also a notification to the invited guests to repair to the mill. In company with our good looking neighbor, Mr. Ingram, of the Tobacco Leaf, we were in time to make an inspection of the machinery and workings of the establishment prior to the arrival of the crowd. We were politely shown through by Mr. M. T. Graham, the whole-souled engineer of the mill .-The magnificent engine and everything under his control was polished and in splendid running order. Our tour through the building exhibited to us some 8,000 bushels of wheat, and a specimen of the finest turn out of flour for the season-which was pronounced by competent judges to be a very superior article. Mr. Graham informed THE members of Dr. Clark's class, us that they could store 25,000 bushand all others who feel inclined to, are els of wheat, and under the direction invited to attend the meeting at the of Mr. James Peacock, a miller of residence of J.
